

Carolina Pimenta

Carolina work has two distinct strands, on one hand the exploration of self-reflection & identity as much as the investigation of new territories, social interaction & the representation of the human body. These components are influenced and offer mutual contributions, in a reflexive process in search of liberations and exploration of the now and the reality surrounding her. Our role within our culture is ever more questioned and shifting, photographing compulsively day-to-day/night-to-night, she question and examines the relationships between youth, modern life, human and nature.
